

What do students say about our seminars?

We're delighted with your interest in this year's seminar. As you're probably aware, we keep the registration fee low to encourage attendance (it covers only about one-third the cost of sponsoring the seminar); financial assistance we receive from donors makes up the rest. These contributions help fund the seminar as well as allow us to offer free admittance to qualified students.

You might enjoy these comments we received from recent student participants:

"It is rare for students attending State Universities, such as me, to be exposed to insightful ideologies and historical perspectives beyond the realm deemed acceptable by those who shape the curriculum at our state's institutions of higher learning. It is encouraging to know that everyone involved in the Freedom Seminar is making such a positive effort to reach students and include us in your event."

Nicholas Everett, PSU

"I am bombarded everyday with socialist thought and theory while attending college. When I attempt to debate or even inquire on any topic that may have even a hint of relevance to today's topics I am scoffed at, stared at with blank eyes or (even) openly laughed at for my 'outmoded' ideals. This whole day was as a cool glass of water offered to the traveler from the sands of socialism. Thank you."

Robert McGrath, Lower Columbia College

"I enjoyed this seminar very much. I thought the speakers were really wonderful and the topics were interesting. I also loved the discussion groups because it gave me a chance to use and process the information I had just heard in the speeches, as well as letting me hear others' opinions about them."

Darcy Wright, Delphian School

Please share registration information with any student you believe would benefit from attending our seminar. We and the speakers try to make it a comfortable setting for students to learn more about freedom.

We look forward to seeing you on November 22.
